

Founded in May 1989 in France, NOTOCORD is recognized as the most advanced/innovative software company for Physiological Data Acquisition & Analysis enabling pharmaceutical researchers to estimate or detect drug impact on physiological signals. At the heart of the company is an original multidisciplinary approach with united professionals from the pharmaceutical research, medical, signal processing and computer engineering fields into a solid team with a single objective - provide and support the advanced testing solutions that will play an essential role in the future of pharmaceutical research and medicine.

With a strong financial structure and 18 employees, a head office in Paris, a subsidiary in New Jersey, USA, more than 1400 installed software, top pharmaceutical research companies as customers, NOTOCORD is now looking for highly motivated contributors.

JOB TITLE: Product Engineer

LOCATION: Paris area (Western Suburbs)

DUTIES AND ASSIGNMENTS:

The Product Engineer will be responsible to manage the design and documentation function of NOTOCORD Systems best-selling software solutions for biomedical and pharmaceutical research, including neuroscience as well as cardiovascular, pulmonary and electrophysiological experimentation.

Key responsibilities include:

- Ability to understand and capture customer's requirements
- Ensure the liaison between sales, software development and general management entities
- Establish new products specifications and adapt new standards to existing products
- Perform launch of new products, meeting deadlines and customer requirements
- Represent NOTOCORD at international conferences and client meetings (travels expected)
- Participate, where required, in various team and project meetings, seminars and trade-shows.

REQUIREMENTS:

Qualifications and Experience: Master or Life Science degree required with background in neurosciences, cardiology or pharmaceutical research.

Skills in product specification and project management.

English fluent.

CONTACT:

ingprod0608@notocord.com